Salt Lake City, Utah 84102

Dedication

Three years ago, a new chaplain came to the Rowland Hall-St. Mark's community. She faced a challenge that only her talented, versatile self (and flashy red convertible) could face. Sandra "Raggs" Ragan speeds back and forth between two campuses to conduct chapel services. She skillfully organizes classes for ages ranging from squirmy preschoolers to anxious but equally squirmy seniors. Despite a demanding schedule, she is always willing to take the time to cheer a discouraged student or even just to hear a new joke. In "Raggs" (as she is known around here) we've found a virtual treasure chest of talents, but none more valuable than her ability to communicate.

Raggs' ecumenical approach makes all of her classes and chapels interesting. Everyone in her classes learns to respect the ideas of others, no matter how different they may seem. Raggs is a scholar and always will be. As if graduating from Stanford weren't enough, she travelled the world and continues to find new subjects to tackle. Sadly, the job is challenging enough for two people, and next year Raggs will become the official chaplain of the lower school, while we here at the upper school will welcome a new chaplain. Though her smiling face won't be around as much, her presence will always be felt in the new, open-minded spirit she encouraged. We will probably never be able to adequately thank Raggs for all she has given to our school, but this book is dedicated to her because of her determination and willingness to look for the best in all situations.

The 1991-1992 Literary Magazine class produced the 4th annual Mosaic, which has won national recognition in the past. The class combined creative writing with production of the magazine. This year's staff was an exceptionally mature and sophisticated group of students. Various forms and styles of writing are shown in this year's Mosaic. The Literary Magazine staff included Jane Barrett, Jessica Carroll, Dan Conner, Barbara Cook, Adam Haigh, Jenni Hightower, Mari Hoidal, Peter Jacobsen, Anuja Joshi, Nayer Khazeni, Jonathon Lee, Amanda Maw, Adrienne McConnell, Rebecca Moyle, Lindsey Oswald, Matthew Prince, Hillary Rogers, Nathan Straight, and Edmund Wrenn.

The Gazette staff worked hard to have another successful year. This year the circulation was expanded to all alumni. The class, led by adviser Liz Paige, included editor Amy Anderson and assistant editor, John Coulter. Osanna Avanesova, John Kleinschmidt, Patrick Lin, and Andrew Paulos made up the business staff. Photographers were Haakon Bjercke and Marc Mathis. Price Ellington, Jonathan Judge, David Kennedy, Angie Migliaccio, Allison Miller, Keith Nielson, Sarah Patrick, Martin Ramstad, Rachael Squires, and Satoe Yanagimura were staff writers.

Class Retreats

Bonding under cloudy skies

Ahhh 24 hours with one group of people

The theme of this year's Senior Class Retreat was "Renaissance, Reform and Revolution in Eastern Europe." Students discussed, studied, and shared information about the U.S.S.R., Yugoslavia, Germany, and the Eastern European Community. Guest speakers included two Soviet students who are studying in Salt Lake City, Joanne Letendre, and alumna Ali Wilson. Students also participated in activities to make the class more of a community. The day was organized by Brigitte Kirk, Ruth Sturges, and Carol Spurgeon.

I know my arm's in here somewhere.

Early withdrawal symptoms.

The Junior Class Retreat was held at Camp Kostopolous in the picturesque Emigration Canyon. Reverend Joanne Leach was the guest speaker, who aided in clarifying students' values as well as interests. Students shared ambitions and enjoyed comparing the outcomes of various tests and activities. This knowledge was applied to college and career planning. The class left with a clear sense of what they are looking for in their future; who they are; and who they want to be.

Monkey see, monkey do.

Three Blind Mice

Wait, Let me help!

The Sophomore Class retreat was held at Camp Tuttle in Big Cottonwood Canyon. Students participated in the ropes course to build class spirit and to promote camaraderie. During their free time, they played volleyball, "Australian rules" football, and rhythm sticks; and at night they performed skits for their classmates and sang songs.

This side up.

Well bonded.

"Romeo, Romeo, oh where for art thou Romeo"

I'm not coming down until you stop hugging me!

The Freshman Class, on their retreat to Camp Utaba, learned the importance of interaction with the community. The guest speaker, Barbara Lewis, made the topic fun and interesting. In between the learning sessions the class enjoyed playing soccer, football, volleyball, and just getting to know each other. Some time was spent telling stories around the campfire. The class chose to help the homeless as their community service project.

Debate

What do you mean I have to spend my weekend at Alta?

A debate stud.

This year the debate team had a new, revitalized spirit. With a new batch of frosh, eager to win, as well as quite a few independent debaters, the quest for blood was on. "Take no prisoners," growled their coach Frank "the executioner" Langheinrich, as team captains Ben Dahl and Matt Prince tucked their files of doom into seemingly innocent briefcases. Out the door they all went, howling and chanting, thirsting for the moment speaker points would be totaled.

Now, Frank, calm down

That doesn't look like Rebecca or Alice to me.

Peer Counselors

So that's how babies are made!

Future psychiatrists of America?

What's wrong with this picture?

Will this go to Vogue?

Nice wad.

Can we talk!

This year the Peer Counselors were a fine group of young adults. They went to a training session in Ephraim, Utah, at Snow College. The Peer Counselors planned and led the fall Middle School retreat. They took part in Red Ribbon Week, the Great American Smoke-Out, and various other activities. Under the leadership of the always energetic Mary Kay Lehto, and with the legendary Mary Matthewson as Community Counseling Center sponsor, the Peer Counselors kept peace throughout the school. The great minds discussed above were: Jim Crockett, Ben Dahl, Jenny Hightower, Chris Mark, Kelly Wright, Dan Conner, John Coulter, Patrick Gibbons, Erica Howe, and Beth Davis.

Student Council

like she cares

Wake up, Mark!

Our fine Student Council

The representative body of Rowland Hall this year had a new twist, the presidents of the classes held policy in their hands, while the vice presidents handled social activities. Also new to the council was the fact that the four student prefects helped to serve on the council. All in all, the council wrote a new student council constitution, focused on dress code, held fun assemblies, and raised the spirit of the school with social get togethers.

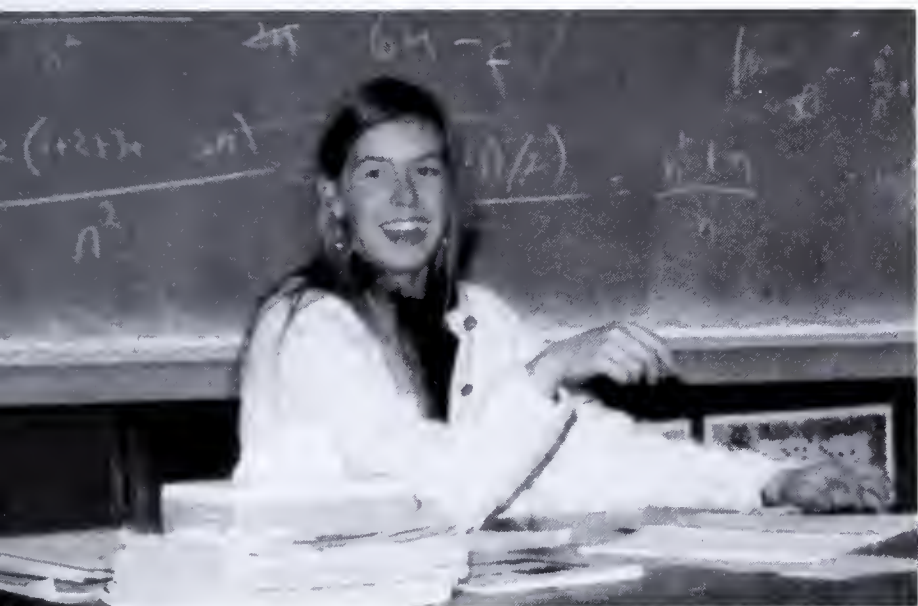

This was posed. (They wanted to look smart)

Middle School Officers (missing: Chris Von Maack)

What was that, Katie?

Madame President (isn't she perky?)

Art Club

This year's Art Club focused on the social aspect of an artist's life. The Art Club visited museums and spent time socializing at various houses. The club was headed by Liz Goldstein, president, Lindsey Oswald, Jane Barrett, vice presidents, Ann Ferguson, secretary, David Kennedy and Menasheh Fogel, activities board. This year's t-shirt was designed by David Kennedy.

Community Service

Those guys are nuts.

What is 8.306623863?

Boy, those jelly beans look good.

Various groups at RHSM this year endeavored to give a little bit back to our community through volunteer service. At the Traveler's Aid Family Shelter, National Honor Society members tutored kids in a wide range of subjects. Here at school, members also helped fellow students with after school tutoring sessions. The Student Council collected pennies from the Rowland Hall community to fund an Easter party for kids at the shelter as well. In addition to helping our local community, we reached out a bit farther also. Amy Anderson headed a group dedicated to raising money to promote literacy in our sister city in Africa, Ouelessebou-gou. The Literacy Project entailed all aspects of helping an entire community to read.

Dance Company

The 1991-1992 Dance Company was a year-long class full of creative young dancers developing technical and performance skills. The Dance Company included Osanna Avanesova, Anna Barnes, Marley Bramble, Sydney Brown, Shannon Burke, Alison Hermance, Alice Mitchell, Rebecca Moyle, Mitzi Murray, Mary Perry, Hillary Rogers, Lithe Sebesta, Rachel Squires, Wendy Stansbury, Reagan Tolboe, and Michelle Wade. The group, led by Joan Kingston, was working on their "Esprit du Corps" and was responsible for the major portion of the three night Spring Concert in May.

The saga of love and money was violently played out on our stage in November with the musical comedy, "The Pajama Game". Directed by Angela Russell-Gibbons, Rick McClure, Joan Kingston, Maria Lazerus and assistant directors Libby Mitchell, Amy Anderson and Alice Mitchell, after weeks of blood, sweat, tears and sore throats, the musical came off with very few hitches (and a lot of broken knives). This year the highlight of the show was when the stage crew was caught with their pants down. Special thanks to the band the stage crew, the light crew, artists Menasheh Fogel and Rebecca Moyle, and the explosives crew Luther Light and Peter Woolf.

Hurry up

The cast of "The Pajama Game" included: Hillary Rogers, Stephen Folias, Alison Hermance, Ryan Boehme, Reagan Tolboe, Jonathan Lee, Dusty Silvester, Beth Davis, Avid Amiri, Ed Wrenn, Michelle Wade, Martin Ramstadt, Kathleen Tundermann, Katy Crile, Katie Conrow, Jacob Dunlop, Sara Ranger, Amanda Parker-Ford, Tracy Gibbons, Nayi Mitchell and Alice Mitchell.

Candle And Carol

Candle and Carol was held for the 111th time in the history of Rowland Hall-St. Marks School. Katie Beck, Molly Billings, Jessica Carroll, Anuja Joshi, Dave Kennedy, Nayer Khazeni, Amanda Kobbler, Jeanna Nixon, Lindsay Oswald, and Nathan Straight participated as acolytes. Passages from the Bible were read by Sydney Brown, Macey Mott, Hillary Rogers, Lithe Sebesta, Reagan Tolboe, and Michelle Wade. The chorus and bell choir performed, and the congregation sang carols.

Music

Our lovely choir, what voices!!!

The Bell Choir.

Ooooo a saxophone

The Music Department at RHSM expanded greatly this year. New chorus teacher Maria Lazerus organized the school's first Madrigal Choir, as well as a barbershop quartet and Latin group. The always energetic Rick McClure directed the RHSM Band, Rowtown, and the 8th grade bell choir in its 1991-92 debut. The Fine Arts Department is looking forward to performances next year in the new Tony Larimer Auditorium.

Play that funky music!

Middle School Retreat

Middle School students went on an all-day retreat in September to Washington Terrace in Parley's Canyon. Peer Counselors led their advisory groups in relay races and games to get to know each other better, in the morning; after sack lunches at noon, students played volleyball, football, frisbee, soccer, softball, and relaxed in the sun.

Sports

Rowmark

The 1991-92 Rowmark Ski Academy worked to be the best team in Rowland Hall history. Training in the weight room and on the slopes helped Rowmark to another successful season. This year's coaches and training pushed the elite group of athletes to their limits. The team, this year, consisted mainly of rookies with very few veterans. The relatively young team will grow to be very strong in the upcoming years. With athletes from all over the globe, Rowmark formed a strong group of skiers which had many Junior Olympic caliber performances throughout the year.

Women's Tennis

"Are you looking at me?"

"Rowland Hall Takes All." Well, they almost took all. A mere two points behind Park City, the girls' tennis team took second place in the 2-A State Championships. This year, Dr. Keller Higbee joined forces with second year coach Lisa Halverson to lead the team to an even better season than last. The 1991-1992 girls' tennis team included Lindsay Alder, Nicole Caswell, Laura Chummers, Allison Farbman, Valerie Floyd, Cari Johnson, Nayer Khazeni, Adrienne McConnell, Lindsay Parrish, Hadley Rampton, Emily Sandack, Geeta Shah, Kristen Wenger, and Jenny Williams.

This year the baseball team had a successful season under the direction of head coach, Danny Shwam and assistant coaches Frank Langheinrich and Mike Murray. The team consisted of the following players. Varsity: Nate Straight, Dan Conner, Clay Crosland, Marc Mathis, Ryland Sumner, Steve Spurgeon, Eric Langheinrich, Ed Wrenn, Chris Mark, Jonathan Lee, David Gosling, Jim Crockett, Price Ellington, Adam Haigh, and Andy Carey. Junior Varsity: Jon Judge, Andrew Gelman, Elliott Anderson, Ryan Arrington, Brian Nakai, Art Herpel, Peter Loebecke, John Coulter, Brady Rassmussen, Ari Benowitz; and bat boy, Mark Langheinrich.

Volleyball

Heave Ho!

Go team!

Dedication and determination paid off for this year's volleyball team as it led them to 2nd place in division, 5th in region, and finally to the team goal of competing in the state tournament. Under the excellent guidance of head coach Laurie Carpenter, and new assistant coach Lori Dall, the teams had an exciting season. The varsity players included Ellen Erlings-son, captain; Tama Selekof, co-captain; Sydney Brown, Mari Hoidal, Anne Leppert, Jeni Nakao, Sally Mason, Molly Billings, Jessica Carroll, Janell James, Amanda Maw and Angie Migliaccio. Members of the junior varsity team were Audrey Beck, Christy Meade, Kathleen Easton, and Melinda Montgomery. A new and successful part of this year's program was the freshman team, led by Lani Bishoff's experience and great coaching ability. Freshman players were Katerina Bartolome, Emily Michael, Mag-gie Moore, Adria Muir, Mary Sarver, Michel Williams, Emily Wood, and Jamie Zeigler.

No, believe me, the net is this way.

Men's Basketball

The Men's Basketball team had one of the best years ever. Price Ellington was the second leading scorer in the state. Behind Ellington was a strong supporting case: Jim Crockett, Tom Kuhnel, Steve Spurgeon, Scott Nuismer, Adrian Larson, Drew Paulos, Mark Kulmer, Marc Mathis, John Kleinschmidt, David Early, Martin Ramstad, Chris Mark, and Chris Alexis.

Women's Basketball

The 1991-92 Women's basketball team continued its tradition of excellence this year, as well as the annual growth of the team. Among the new members was Lori Dall, the assistant coach, who worked with Laurie Carpenter to guide the team. The varsity team included Ellen Erlingsson, captain, Tama Selekof, co-captain, Sydney Brown, Mami Asanuma, Anne Leppert, Janell James, Melinda Montgomery, Angie Migliaccio, Sally Mason, Jenny Williams, Beth Davis, and Christy Meade. The Junior Varsity team consisted of the last five girls in addition to Jaime Ipson, Katherine Bartolome, Katie Clarke, Emily Michael, and Jenni Hightower.

-Adam

The first time and the first in importance of the influences upon the mind is that of nature. Every day, the sun; and, after sunset, Night and her stars. Ever the wind blows; ever the grass grows...The scholar is he of all men whom this spectacle most engages...Yet when this spiritual light shall have revealed the law of more earthly natures,--when he has learned to worship the soul, and to see that the natural philosophy that now is, is only the first gropings of its gigantic hand, he shall look forward to an ever expanding knowledge as to becoming creator. He shall see that nature is the opposite of the soul, answering to it part for part. One is seal and one is print. Its beauty and the beauty of his own mind. Nature then becomes to him the measure of his attainments. So much of nature as he is ignorant of, so much of his own mind he does not yet possess. And, in fine, the ancient precept, "Know thyself," and the modern precept, "Study nature," become at last one maxim.

-Ralph Waldo Emerson, "the American Scholar"
